

John Terry, Centreville, VA.

Mountain Valley Pipeline needs to stop construction and schedule a rehearing. The pipeline needs a reset. After personally walking the proposed pipeline route, I find it impossible for the construction crews to realistically follow the guidelines they've set for themselves. They will do more harm than good, and no amount of money earned by the pipeline will offset the damage done from the cutting of trees and blasting of bedrock. Not to mention the health risks associated with when, not if, the pipeline leaks. And the utter destruction in the horrible event of an explosion.

Construction must stop until all the issues have been researched and attended to. Rushing the pipeline forward only creates dangerous situations and the potential for damages that are unrecoverable.

Document Content(s)

75109.TXT.....1-1